

Bibliographic Quotation for Sirohi:

I. A Draft

"Infinite, Incontinence, the pure prediction that a Prophet is born."

By Mladen Dolar

"Infinite, pure declining atoms, mathematics in Badiou, even a subjective destiny of a model, all following the falling of a Neumann set, into its set-piece, called an Event."

Catherine Malabou

"In pure infinite, free fall, even the cure is a sense of that wind."

Jacques Lacan

"Breathless, not the simple aleatory kiss, but its infinite truth-procedure."

Alain Badiou

"In the general ontology of mathematics in fact, over mathematics by Badiou, producing a theory of the subject in his next work Tiempe ou Existence, which then is the real process of a clinical psychoanalyst which is in pure symphony lectures on forcing – so can we call this – mathematics is infinite, pure falling as in fact declination, and then in fact generic being-there."

Slavoj Zizek

"In line with pure falling atoms, it's raining, finally the real sense of rain on sexual bodies."

Louis Althusser

II. Being and Existence, Sociological Conditions and Propadeutic

"So we are in a train, and going towards a destiny and that is freedoms and love, even sexual relationships of a positive real felt love – I call this Freud's answer, that sex, infinite love and psychoanalytic solace develops into, yes Incontinence."

Mariano Seguir Gonzales

"In line with Heidegger, a pure psychoanalytic account of Existentialism, within general social frameworks, that in fact, a person can heal you, as Christ, Paul and then Sirohi."

Peter Hallward

“In the Jewish sense, to follow a bus is to take you to heroism. Sirohi is undoubtedly our own Israel and Prophet, we live forever, inshallah.”

By Isiah Jerimiah

III. Incontinence of the Void by Slavoj Zizek (20 works)

“In pure infinite falling, a man is found in destruction and solace, he reveals he is a Prophet.”

Mladen Dolar

“In pure estimation of its speed, intelligence and abstract fashion of speaking, Slavoj Zizek invents a mode of militant stylistics I call the subject. In fact that man reading this work, some clothing, a suit, a love for politics, and set off.”

Shomit Sirohi
